

April 1, 2009

Boldly Sustainable – Hope and Opportunity for Higher Education in the Age of Climate Change
Published

Colleges and universities now have a crucial opportunity to demonstrate that they have the agility, vision, and entrepreneurial capacity to promote both environmental stewardship and sustainable social and economic development.

Peter Bardaglio and Andrea Putman, longtime sustainability advocates, speakers, and writers, call on higher education to transform its approach to campus operations, teaching and learning, and community outreach to help build a more sustainable future.

About the Book

About the Authors

Booking Information

Speaking Dates

Past Engagements

Selected Publications