

Joining the Climate Leadership Network

Initiating or Expanding your Climate Leadership Commitment

Before You Sign

Bold commitments to climate action by higher education leaders have a significant impact at their institution and beyond. To join the Climate Leadership Network, higher education presidents and chancellors can sign one of three commitments. Signatories can expand their commitment at any time.

Explore the options below to determine the best fit for your institution:

Current Signatory

A current Carbon Commitment signatory (formerly ACUPCC), and you want to include Resilience

A current Resilience Commitment signatory and you want to include Carbon

Future Signatory

An institution that is not part of the Climate Leadership Network and you want to do both carbon and resilience work

An institution that is not part of the Climate Leadership Network and you want to focus on carbon neutrality

An institution that is not part of the Climate Leadership Network and you want to focus on climate resilience

Sign

The Climate Commitment

The Resilience Commitment

After You Sign

After sending in your signed commitment, Second Nature will welcome the president or chancellor of your institution and share important resources for getting started. At that time, an Implementation Liaison will have to be appointed by your institution's president or chancellor, to lead the reporting requirements for the commitment.

After sending the signed commitment to Second Nature, many schools choose to have a public signing ceremony and announce their new commitment to local media. We are happy to support your communications surrounding these efforts.
