

Aurora serves as the Director of Sustainability for Swarthmore College and a faculty member in Bard College's Sustainable MBA program. Aurora previously founded new sustainability programs at the University of California Santa Cruz and the University of Hawaii. She also previously worked for Leidos Engineering, LLC as the Market Transformation Manager for Hawaii Energy, the state's energy efficiency program and worked with the University of Hawaii West O`ahu and MA'O Organic Farms to launch a B.A. program in Sustainable Community Food Systems. She is a national convener for the Council on the Uncertain Human Future and works as a facilitator for AASHE's annual Change Leaders Retreat.