

George Ashton is Managing Director of Strategic Investments with the Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC). George leads all three of Strategic Investments service lines LISC Fund Management, Community Investment Accelerator, and Venture Investments. His efforts pursue a range of high-impact investments that create jobs, fuel small businesses, revitalize commercial areas, improve housing, expand local incomes and make communities safer and stronger. He previously served as co-founder and president of Sol System, a Washington, D.C.-based renewable energy investment firm. There, George worked closely with multinational banks, insurers and energy providers on innovative funds and financial structures, deploying more than $1 billion in tax equity, cash equity and debt over the last decade into renewable energy projects. In addition to his many professional accomplishments, Ashton volunteers his time for a variety of Washington, D.C.-area organizations and is a graduate of the College of William and Mary, with a bachelor's degree in finance and economics. George earned his MBA from the University of Maryland.
