

Maureen Kline is Vice President, Public Affairs and Sustainability for Pirelli North America, responsible for the US, Canada and Mexico. She is based in New York.

She is a member of the board of Pirelli North America Inc. and of the 401(K) Plan Benefits Administration Committee of Pirelli Tire LLC.

She chairs the board of the Tire and Rubber Association of Canada and the Sustainability Task Force of the US Tire Manufacturers Association. She is a member of the Corporate Responsibility Steering Committee of the Automotive Industry Action Group, and of the Standards Advisory Group of the Sustainability Accounting Standards Board.

She writes a column on sustainability for www.inc.com. She also co-teaches a course called Enterprise Sustainability within Clarkson University's Engineering Management Master's program. She is a member of the inaugural board of YaleBlueGreen, the Yale University alumni special interest group on environment and sustainability.

Previously she was based in Pirelli's headquarters in Milan, Italy, where she coordinated government affairs for the company's foreign subsidiaries, and before that was responsible for Pirelli's international media relations.

Prior to her public affairs and communications career, Maureen worked as a journalist over a 15-year period. She was a Milan-based correspondent for the Wall Street Journal Europe, Breaking Views, and Business Week. She edited a blog on the topic of meritocracy, hosted by Italian daily newspaper Corriere della Sera. She wrote and co-hosted a TV talk show in Italy on business and finance, broadcast on the local channel Telelombardia.

Maureen Kline holds a Bachelor's degree from Yale University and a Master's degree from the London School of Economics. She lived in Italy for over 20 years, working in the communications, public affairs and legal fields, and holds dual US-Italian citizenship.

Twitter: @kline_maureen